Global Currencies

Last week, the U.S. Dollar Index gained 99bps over the course of the week to close at 100.85 points, with the primary catalyst being a more hawkish than expected policy signal from the Federal Reserve. Under new Chair Kevin Warsh, the FOMC held rates steady in the 3.50%–3.75% range but shifted its forward guidance meaningfully. Nine of eighteen policymakers penciled in at least a 0.25% interest rate hike for 2026, shifting the dot plot's outlook from an easing bias to a tightening one. From a market mechanics standpoint, the repricing of the Fed's rate path widened the interest rate differential between the U.S. and other developed economies, making dollar denominated assets comparatively more attractive to foreign capital. That dynamic drove broad based dollar strength, with the index briefly testing levels above 101.00 and the Japanese Yen bearing the brunt of the selling pressure.

However, geopolitical progress toward a preliminary U.S.–Iran peace framework, which could reopen the Strait of Hormuz and restore disrupted oil flows, triggered a rapid market risk reassessment that tempered these dollar gains. Consequently, safe-haven capital began rotating back into higher-yielding, risk-sensitive assets.

The Euro was the standout performer among major currencies last week, gaining 87 bps wow to reach 1.15 against the dollar. This move was driven almost entirely by external factors rather than any material shift in Eurozone fundamentals. The primary catalyst was the broader dollar retreat following the U.S - Iran peace deal announcement as investors rotated capital into European assets. We believe that the ECB's recent rate hike provided incremental support by narrowing the interest rate differential that had been a persistent structural headwind for the currency. With geopolitical tensions easing and the Fed's trajectory appearing less aggressively hawkish, the euro's near-term setup looks more constructive, though any sustained rally will depend on whether Eurozone data can provide independent fundamental backing.

Nigeria – NGN

Last week, at the NFEM window, the Naira depreciated against the US Dollar by 48bps wow to close at N1,370.46/US, dragging its YTD appreciation to 5.26%. Meanwhile, Nigeria's foreign reserves grew 1.05% wow to close at US$51.04bn as of 18 June 2026. We believe that the steady reserve accretion afforded the CBN sufficient buffer to avoid large-scale intervention and contain the slide within a narrow band.

Ghana – GHS

The Ghanaian Cedi depreciated by 67bps wow against the US Dollar to close at 11.18 Cedi/US$, driving its YTD depreciation to -6.04%.

Fixed Income

Nigeria LCY

Last week, the OPR rate held flat at 22.00%, while the O/N rate gained 4bps wow to close at 22.20%. System liquidity remained in positive territory throughout the week, underpinned by sizeable OMO maturities of c. N1.5tn. Bank balances peaked above N5tn mid-week before moderating to N3.98tn by Friday, as the NTB auction debit of approximately N1.4tn weighed on closing balances.

In the secondary fixed income market, the average benchmark bond yield expanded by 36bps wow to close at 17.42%. In addition, average benchmark OMO yield contracted marginally by 9bps wow to close at 20.69%, while the average benchmark NTB yield expanded by 8bps to close at 16.81%. Additionally, the bi-weekly NTB auction was held and the DMO offered N1tn across three maturities and we saw oversubscription of N1.86tn, which translates to a bid to offer ratio of 1.86x. At the end of the auction, the DMO allotted N1.5tn, and we saw average stop rate expand by 63bps to 16.71% from 16.08% which it closed at in the previous auction.

Looking ahead this week, the DMO's June bond auction slated to be held today, is expected to set the tone for fixed income market activity through the rest of the week. The DMO is offering N1.2tn across two re-opened instruments, the 10-year JAN-35 and the 20-year APR-37 bonds, each with an offer size of N600bn. Market direction in the days ahead will largely be determined by how today's session clears.

Ghana LCY

Last week, the Ghanaian yield curve expanded by 7bps wow to close at 10.68%, driven largely by selling sentiments across the curve. Last week, at the latest Treasury bill auction, the government attracted only GHS4.21tn in bids. Eventually, the government took the exact amount it attracted with average interest rate expanding by 23bps to 7.93%.

SSA Eurobonds

In the SSA Eurobond market last week, average yields contracted by 44bps wow to close at 12.45% due to buying sentiments across select markets. The strongest buying sentiment was observed in Zambia, where yields fell by 118bps, followed by Angola (-86bps), Nigeria (-81bps), Egypt (-52bps), South Africa (-52bps), Congo (-52bps), Ghana (-32bps), Kenya (-7bps). Notably, there was also selling sentiments in Ivory Coast (+19bps).

Explanatory Note on Recommendation

Chapel Hill Denham Research uses a 3-grade recommendation system for stocks under its coverage: BUY, HOLD and SELL. These recommendations are based on the current share price of the stock relative to the Analyst target price derived using either intrinsic or relative valuation techniques or a combination of both as the case may be, having considered the sector, company and key valuation drivers.

Recommendation Criteria:

BUY: The Analyst considers this stock to be undervalued and with sound fundamentals where the upside potential is in excess of or equal to 20% between the current price and the Analyst target price.

HOLD: The Analyst considers this stock to be fully valued where the upside potential is between 0% and 20% or the downside potential is less than 10% between the current price and the Analyst target price.

SELL: The Analyst considers this stock to be overvalued where the downside potential is in excess of 10% between the current price and the Analyst target price.

RESTRICTED: Communication of recommendation is deemed as restricted when Chapel Hill Denham is engaged in an investment banking transaction or other related circumstances with the Company.

Chapel Hill Denham does not offer advice on the tax consequences of investment and you are advised to contact an independent tax adviser.

Neither this Report nor any copy or part thereof is intended for distribution, or transfer, either directly or indirectly to, or use by, any person or entity that is a citizen or resident or located in any locality, state, country or other jurisdiction where such distribution, transfer, publication, availability or use would be contrary to law or regulation or which would require any registration or licensing within such jurisdiction. The analyst(s) (as author(s) of this Report) and Chapel Hill Denham are not subject to the laws of other countries, notably the United States of America ("US"), the member states of the European Union ("E.U.") or the United Kingdom ("U.K., during and after its membership of the E.U.) as these laws may affect the publication and distribution of this report. Accordingly, protections conferred by or under laws of other countries would not apply.

The analyst(s) (as authors of this Report), are not registered with the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority in the U.S., the Financial Conduct Authority ("FCA") and the Prudential Regulation Authority ("PRA") of the U.K. Neither Chapel Hill Denham nor any of its affiliates is not authorised by the FCA or PRA. Accordingly, no liability for compliance with those laws, which respect to this report, is accepted by Chapel Hill Denham, its directors, employees or any of its affiliates.

Chapel Hill Denham, its directors, employees or any of its affiliates may have or may have had interests in any of the companies contained herein or hold long or short positions in any of the securities mentioned herein. Directors and employees of Chapel Hill Denham or its affiliates may serve or may have served as officers or directors of the companies contained herein. Chapel Hill Denham is required by the Nigerian Securities & Exchange Commission to make certain disclosures on shareholdings of its directors and Personal Account Trading of its analysts.

Chapel Hill Denham and its affiliates may act or may have acted as market maker in the securities contained herein. Chapel Hill Denham or its affiliates may have or may have had a relationship with or provide or have provided investment banking, investment management, and/or financial services to the companies contained herein; Chapel Hill Denham however relies on information barriers, such as 'Chinese walls' to control the flow of information. Accordingly, the analyst(s) and other members of the Research Department of Chapel Hill Denham do not receive any non-public information regarding transactions or investments of Chapel Hill Denham and any of its affiliates and do not take part in its internal meetings.

Furthermore, it is a policy of Chapel Hill Denham that no department or affiliate influences the opinions, estimates, forecast or recommendations of the Research Department, nor privy to the contents or recommendations of the Research Department's reports and recommendations ahead of their publications. It is also the policy of Chapel Hill Denham that members of the Research Department are not privy to knowledge of advisory mandates, or other fiduciary relationships, engaged in by Chapel Hill Denham or any of its affiliates.
