Global Currencies

The U.S. Dollar Index (DXY) declined by 33bps last week to close Friday at 98.91pts, driven by expectations that the United States and Iran were close to a deal to reopen the Strait of Hormuz. The end of the conflict between the two countries would likely lead to a drop in safe-haven demand, which would be negative for the dollar. However, a flare-up in hostilities over the weekend and expectations of a possible rate hike by the Federal Reserve, should the war persist, means the DXY is likely on an upward trajectory.

In the Eurozone, the EUR/USD pair appreciated by 49bps wov to US$1.17/EUR, bolstered primarily by the reduction in safe-haven demand and increase in global risk appetite stemming from the aforementioned reports of progress towards a ceasefire extension in the Iran war.

Nigeria – NGN

Last month, the Naira appreciated 0.12% against the US Dollar at the NFEM window to close at NGN1373.25/US$, on the back of a 0.16% wov appreciation. YTD appreciation stands at 4.55%. Nigeria's foreign reserves grew 2.02% in May to close at $49.34bn as of 26th May 2026, following a 0.73% wov increase.

Ghana – GHS

The Ghanaian Cedi depreciated 158bps wov against the US Dollar to close at GHS11.74/US$, bringing its depreciation in the month of May to -4.64%, and its YTD depreciation to -10.52%.

Fixed Income

Nigeria LCY

Last month, the OPR rate remained flat at 22.00%, while the O/N rate declined by 11bps mom to close at 22.19%. Average daily System liquidity increased by 773bps mom from an average of N5.14tn in April to N5.54tn in May. The Nigerian Overnight Financing Rate (NOFR) remained flat to close at 22.00%

The CBN held six OMO auctions during May 2026, each offering N600.00bn (N3.60tn in aggregate), to mop up excess liquidity. Demand was consistently strong across the month, with most instruments oversubscribed. Total subscription sat at N12.85tn, with a resultant bid to offer ratio of 3.57x, reflecting robust appetite from market participants. Overall, the total successful bids sat at N12.54tn. For the month of May, average stop rate closed at 20.82%, from an average of 20.39% in April 2026.

On the NTB side, the DMO conducted two auctions during the month, offering a combined N1.35tn across the standard 91-day, 182-day and 364-day tenors. Demand was concentrated at the long end on both occasions, with the 91-day instrument undersubscribed at each auction. The average stop rate held steady at 16.08%, having contracted by 3bps at the first auction before closing flat at the second.

Additionally, the DMO conducted the monthly FGN Bond auction in the final week of the month and offered N600.00bn across two re-opened instruments: the JAN-2035 and APR-2037 bonds. The auction was oversubscribed, with total subscriptions printing at N796.17bn, translating to a bid-to-offer ratio of 1.33x. Notably, N280.00bn of the subscriptions came from non-competitive bids. The DMO ended up allotting a total of N614.51bn, approximately 22.8% below total bids, signalling a preference to manage borrowing costs amid improving liquidity conditions.

In the secondary fixed income market, the average benchmark bond yield expanded by 25bps mom to close at 16.02%. Conversely, average benchmark OMO yield contracted by 11bps mom to close at 20.72%, while the average benchmark NTB yield expanded by 15bps to close at 17.60%.

Looking ahead, we expect a total of N9.82tn in OMO and bond coupon payments and maturities to flow into the market. Consequently, we anticipate further OMO issuances by the CBN to absorb excess system liquidity.

Ghana LCY

Last week, the Ghanaian yield curve contracted by 3bps wov to close at 10.43%, driven largely by buying sentiments across the curve. On a mtd basis, the yield curve has expanded by 12bps. At the latest Treasury bill auction, the government targeted GHS5.89bn, but attracted only GHS4.92bn in bids. Eventually, GHS4.87bn was allotted with average interest rate expanding by 6bps to 7.50%.

SSA Eurobonds

In the SSA Eurobond market last week, average yields expanded by 16bps wov to close at 12.07% due to selling sentiments across select markets. The strongest selling sentiment was observed in Senegal, where yields rose by 124ps, followed by Zambia (+57bps) and Kenya (+26bps). Notably, there was also buying sentiments in Ivory Coast (-27bps), Angola (-20bps) and Congo (-12bps).

Equities

The equities market sustained its bullish momentum last month, as the index gained 3.4% mtd, extending its positive run recorded in prior periods, driving ytd return to 60.9%. This performance was largely driven by gains seen in bellwether stocks such as DANGCEM (49.1%), AIRTELAFRI (32.7%), BUACEMENT (5.5%), ETI (4.2%) and FIRSTHOLDCO (2.6%), which drove c.94% of the gains seen in the market.

Regarding trading activity, both average volume and value traded rose by 38.3% mom and 19.8% mom to close at 1.20bn units and N53.9bn respectively. On a sectoral view, four of the five sectors within our coverage closed in positive territory for the month. The NGX Industrial Goods Index was the standout performer, gaining 8.6% mtd, followed by the NGX Insurance Index (6.5% mtd), the NGX Banking Index (3.4% mtd), and the NGX Consumer Goods Index (1.1% mtd). The sole laggard was the NGX Oil and Gas Index, which declined 1.9% mtd. For companies under our coverage, DANGCEM led the pack with its share price rising by 21.7% mtd, followed by AIRTELAFRI (21.0% mtd), ETI (20.8% mtd), UNILEVER (13.5% mtd) and FIRSTHOLDCO (8.3% mtd). The largest loss was seen in GUINNESS last month, shedding 18.9% mtd. Losses were also recorded in ACCESSCORP (-10.9% mtd), MTNN (-10.4% mtd), ARADEL (-4.5% mtd), and WAPCO (-2.3% mtd).

Effective today, 1 June 2026, the Nigerian capital market formally transitions to a T+1 settlement cycle, pursuant to a directive from the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC). This is a significant structural development for the market. Drawing on the precedent set by the transition from T+3 to T+2, which historically drove a 129% year-on-year increase in average value traded and an 82% year-on-year increase in average volume traded, we expect the move to T+1 to serve as a meaningful catalyst for market activity.

T+1 commences; T+2 drove 129% yoy and 82% yoy rise in average value and volume traded

Ghana

Last week, the GSE Composite Index shed 1.14% WoW to close at 14,354.14pts from 14,518.96pts, dragging MTD performance to -5.13% and YTD return to 63.67% from 65.55% the prior week. The losses in the market was largely driven by losses in SIC, GCB and CAL, which weighed on the broader market during the week.

However, market capitalisation rose by 0.18% WoW to GHS264,742.17mn, with MTD and YTD returns of -6.06% and 53.88%, respectively. In USD terms, market capitalisation declined 0.74% WoW to USD22,585.84mn, translating to an MTD return of -10.27% and YTD return of 37.84%.

The Financial Sector Index performed better than the broader market, contracting by 0.35% WoW to 7,853.48pts from 7,881.22pts. The decline translated to a MTD return of -11.15% dragging YTD performance to 68.99% from 69.59% the prior week.

Trading activity was value driven during the week, as market volume declined while traded value moved higher. Total volume traded fell sharply by 69.86% WoW to 17.53mn units, while value traded increased 2.77x to GHS112.66mn from GHS40.73mn. This suggests that trading activity was concentrated in higher-priced counters, where the total value of transactions increased disproportionately relative to the number of shares traded.

The GSE recorded four gainers in the week ended 29 May 2026. The advancers were led by ZEN, which surged 18.49% WoW to GHS11.47, followed by ETI, up 4.51% to GHS1.39, GLD which gained 0.99% to GHS501.92, and TOTAL which gained 0.27% to GHS33.00. The market saw declines in seven stocks. SIC was the top loser, dropping 5.48% WoW to GHS5.00, followed by GCB (-4.70%), CAL (-3.95%), MTNGH (-3.42%), ALLGH (-3.07%), RBGH (-1.70%), and FML (-0.08%).

Explanatory Note on Recommendation

Chapel Hill Denham Research uses a 3-grade recommendation system for stocks under its coverage: BUY, HOLD and SELL. These recommendations are based on the current share price of the stock relative to the Analyst target price derived using either intrinsic or relative valuation techniques or a combination of both as the case may be, having considered the sector, company and key valuation drivers.

Recommendation Criteria:

BUY: The Analyst considers this stock to be undervalued and with sound fundamentals where the upside potential is in excess of or equal to 20% between the current price and the Analyst target price.

HOLD: The Analyst considers this stock to be fully valued where the upside potential is between 0% and 20% or the downside potential is less than 10% between the current price and the Analyst target price.

SELL: The Analyst considers this stock to be overvalued where the downside potential is in excess of 10% between the current price and the Analyst target price.

RESTRICTED: Communication of recommendation is deemed as restricted when Chapel Hill Denham is engaged in an investment banking transaction or other related circumstances with the Company.
