Economy moving from reforms to growth, says Oyedele - Guardian

The Minister of Finance and Coordinating Minister of the Economy, Taiwo Oyedele, said Nigeria is moving from a phase of economic stabilisation to growth, arguing that the volatility triggered by the removal of petrol subsidy and foreign exchange reforms was an unavoidable consequence of efforts to correct long-standing distortions in the economy. Speaking in an interview with The African Report published on Friday, Oyedele said the government had anticipated the immediate impact of the reforms, including higher fuel prices, increased transportation and logistics costs, and rising inflation. According to him, the distortions created by fuel and foreign exchange subsidies could not have been removed without a period of economic disruption. Click here to read more.
